Can’t we, or mustn’t we, do something to change the discourse and mindsets all around us?

Editorial

“Why do they have to tam-tam: the Emmaus news wall ‘Why do they have to around us?” Abbé Pierre Can’t we, or mustn’t we, do something to change the discourse and mindsets all around us?”

Module C, 1020, Brussels

“Everything is miserable – fromadge, recession, etc. Figures like these, and migrants’ stories, reveal shocking figures among many – like the number of migrants drawn in the Mediterranean, which has now risen to over 23,000. Across the world, figures like these, and migrants’ stories, reveal the appalling situation they’re facing. Such grim reading shows current migration policies, which focus only on national security, are failing, with tragic consequences and shameful disregard for migrants’ fundamental rights. Emmaus is preparing an alternative approach, put forward at the most recent World Social Forum on migration.

In Johannesburg, Emmaus argued freedom of movement and full freedom in the fully capable world was a critical issue. Emmaus argue freedom of movement is not a right for migrants only, but a right for all. Emmaus propose an alternative to the ‘wall of shame’ put up by some governments. It’s up to us to show forward this alternative approach to migration!”

By Jean Rousseau, Chair of Emmaus International

AFRICA

Emmaus on the move: new order, new migration, new integration.

Emmanuel Aouad is a member of a movement of youth and Solidarity. He was born in France to Syrian refugees. After having been involved in the chain of Emmaus, he has now carried his work to his region. It is in this context that an event took place, where a local group of Emmaus, in conjunction with the World Social Forum on migration, has now become a reality. The event was attended by representatives from a variety of countries, including Brazil and South Africa.

In South Africa, Emmaus is working with migrants to help them find work and housing. The group is working to create a network of local organisations, the group ensures they’re aware of the rights they have as migrants. In South Africa, Emmaus is working to help migrants find work and housing. The group is working to create a network of local organisations, the group ensures they’re aware of the rights they have as migrants.

In Brazil, Emmaus is working with migrants to help them find work and housing. The group is working to create a network of local organisations, the group ensures they’re aware of the rights they have as migrants.

AMERICAS

Igualdade, Brazil

Marcos Acuña is a member of Igualdade, Brazil. He has been involved in Igualdade, Brazil, for 20 years. During this time, he has been involved in the leadership of the group, and has been involved in various activities, including the development of local projects. Marcos is a member of the group’s steering committee.

Marcos has been involved in the development of local projects, including the development of local projects. He is a member of the group’s steering committee.

ASIA

VCDS, India

Anne Saingier is a member of VCDS, France. She has been involved in VCDS, France, for 20 years. During this time, she has been involved in various activities, including the development of local projects. Anne is a member of the group’s steering committee.

Anne has been involved in the development of local projects, including the development of local projects. She is a member of the group’s steering committee.

The group is working to help migrants find work and housing. The group is working to create a network of local organisations, the group ensures they’re aware of the rights they have as migrants.

In India, Emmaus is working with migrants to help them find work and housing. The group is working to create a network of local organisations, the group ensures they’re aware of the rights they have as migrants.

Next port of call... Calais

For 20 years, migrants fleeing from conflict zones, war, persecution or hunger have been arriving in Europe. As a result, Calais has become a key port of entry for migrants seeking to enter France. The city has become a symbol of the humanitarian crisis that is unfolding across Europe.

For Anne Saingier, current migration policies are unacceptable. It’s up to us to show forward this alternative approach to migration.

“The number of migrants arriving in Calais has risen significantly in recent years. Many are arriving in a vulnerable state, having been forced to leave their homes and families. The authorities have failed to provide adequate support and assistance, leaving many migrants in a state of despair.”

In response to the crisis, Emmaus has developed a range of services to support migrants in Calais. The group has established a day centre, which provides food and clothing to migrants. The day centre also offers support and advice to migrants, helping them to access local services and find accommodation.

Emmaus has also established a migrant centre in Calais, which provides a range of services to support migrants, including legal advice, employment support and access to local services.

Emmaus is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France. The group is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France.

Emmaus is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France. The group is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France.

Emmaus is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France. The group is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France.

Emmaus is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France. The group is working to ensure that migrants have access to the resources they need to rebuild their lives in France.